Event Recap: 2024 Joint Technical Symposium (JTS)

The nearly sold out 2024 Joint Technical Symposium was held on October 10th and has continued its record of being a highly valuable and informative event for attendees. Keynote speakers covered the future of EHS professionals and Cal/OSHA regulatory updates and attendees had the opportunity to attend multiple of 16 different breakout sessions. Network opportunities abounded throughout the exhibitors and career development sessions.

Mark your calendars for the 2025 JTS on October 9th, 2025! Keep up to date at <https://caljts.com/>

Regulatory Update: Cal/OSHA Lead Standard

The new Lead standard is set to go into effect on January 1st, 2025. Significant changes were made including lowering the Action Level to 2 µg/m³ and the Permissible Exposure Level to 10 µg/m³. Changes were also made to the exposure assessments, blood lead testing, and temporary medical removal. Under General Industry, Separate Engineering Control Airborne Limits (SECALs) were set for Lead Acid Battery manufacturing and recycling facilities.
