December Safety Message: Carbon Monoxide and Lone Workers

The end of the year is upon us, let's review some important safety tips for the winter! As heaters and fireplaces are in more use, the risk for carbon monoxide exposure grows. It's a good time to double check that your carbon monoxide monitors are installed properly and have full battery life.

As holiday vacations are coming up, have a plan in place for lone workers. Earlier this year, SB553 was put into place requiring workplaces to have a plan for Workplace Violence. Lone workers can be especially vulnerable to workplace violence, review your Workplace Violence Prevention Plan to ensure it is properly accounting for lone workers in your workplace.

Event Recap: Indoor Heat Illness Seminar

At the November joint LA/OC ASSP meeting, a representative from the Consultation division of CalOSHA spoke to attendees about the Indoor Heat Illness. The meeting was well attended and helped members better understand how to implement the new standard in their varying workplaces.
